

STEPHEN J. BRAVERMAN

Stephen J. Braverman, Senior Vice President of Development and Community Relations, has served Hebrew SeniorLife with great distinction for the past 18 years. During that time, he built a sophisticated professional fundraising department that has been the envy of senior care organizations across the country, breaking all records for raising philanthropic support in the senior care field. He has been a nationally admired mentor to many nonprofits and professionals and is a frequent presenter at professional institutes. Steve led two outstanding capital campaigns here, Fulfilling the Promise in the 1990s, which raised $26 million, and more than ever, which is nearing its goal of $100 million. Steve has positioned Hebrew SeniorLife prominently on the Boston Jewish community philanthropic map. His great talent, his warm sense of humor, his gentle style as colleague and manager, his effusive warmth and his genuine affection and admiration for all those with whom he works will be sorely missed.

JANE BRODY

Health expert, New York Times Personal Health columnist, author, and trusted voice for everything you ever wanted to know about nutrition, Jane Brody will share her trademark brand of wisdom about health and fitness. She will emphasize the important role that preventive healthcare measures should play in all our lives, and will offer ideas and invaluable information to improve our health and well-being. Author of several books, including Jane Brody's Guide to the Great Beyond, Jane Brody's Good Food Book, Jane Brody's Nutrition Book and Jane Brody's Good Seafood Book, she has also written many magazine articles and lectures frequently on health issues. Hebrew SeniorLife is pleased to welcome Jane Brody to our 107th Annual Meeting and to hear her speak on living and aging well.
