

Affiliated with
Harvard Medical School

Press Release

Cathleen Genova
cgenova@schneiderpr.com
617-646-3348

January 17, 2012

Hebrew SeniorLife Names Mary Moscato as Chief Operating Officer of Hebrew Rehabilitation Center and Health Care Services

Moscato Brings Nearly 30 Years of Health Care Expertise to Respected Boston Organization

BOSTON — Hebrew SeniorLife, the largest provider of senior health care and housing in New England and an affiliate of Harvard Medical School, today announced that Mary Moscato has joined as Chief Operating Officer of the organization's Hebrew Rehabilitation Center and Health Care Services divisions. Moscato brings nearly three decades of health care leadership and most recently served as president and CEO for Care Alternatives, a multi-state provider of community-based health care services.

"Mary is a seasoned health care professional, is highly respected in the health care industry, and we are delighted she is bringing her breadth of knowledge and experience to our team," said Lou Woolf, President, Hebrew SeniorLife. "We are confident her operational experience and strategic vision will be instrumental as we continue to elevate our senior care services."

As a member of the Hebrew SeniorLife senior operations team, Moscato will draw on her dynamic background in health care operations and management to lead the organization in its commitment to providing the highest quality care available to seniors in Greater Boston. In addition, Moscato will help develop the organization's strategic plans in further expansion of its health care services.

"I am thrilled to join the innovative leadership team at Hebrew SeniorLife and to be part of the exciting work the organization is doing to transform the experience of aging in America," said Moscato. "I am eager to contribute my experience to help further Hebrew SeniorLife's mission of providing the highest quality health care and services for seniors."

At Care Alternatives, Moscato was responsible for the operations, financial management, strategic development, quality and regulatory affairs for the organization's community-based, Medicare-certified home health, private duty and hospice care services.

Prior to joining Care Alternatives, Moscato held multiple leadership roles for the HealthSouth Corporation. From 2002 to 2008, she served as senior vice president for the organization's northeast region and was responsible for 20 inpatient rehabilitation hospitals, two long-term acute care hospitals, 42 outpatient sites and four home health agencies. HealthSouth is the parent company of New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn where Moscato served as CEO from 1997 to 2000.

Moscato is a member of numerous industry associations. She is a past board member of the Massachusetts Hospital Association and section member of the American Hospital Association. From 1997 to 2008, Moscato served as the vice board chair of both the New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Portland, Maine and the Fairlawn Rehabilitation Hospital in Worcester, Mass. Moscato received her undergraduate degree from Northeastern University and an M.B.A. and M.P.H. from Boston University. She currently resides in Winthrop, Mass.

About Hebrew Rehabilitation Center

Hebrew Rehabilitation Center, an affiliate of Harvard Medical School, provides an array of health care services for seniors at locations in Boston and Dedham. Services include long-term care, post-acute care, adult day health, and outpatient services.

About Hebrew SeniorLife

Founded in 1903, Hebrew SeniorLife, an affiliate of Harvard Medical School, is a non-sectarian, nonprofit organization devoted to innovative research, health care, education and housing that improves the lives of seniors. For more information, visit www.hebrewseniorlife.org.

#